OCTOBER 29, 1767. THE NUMBER 858.

VIRGINIA GAZETTE.

With the lateſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

LONDON, Auguſt 1.

ALL our accounts from North America agree that their manufactures are in a flouriſhing condition, and turn to better account than their agriculture, or the making of commodities to ſend to England. We have ſamples of cloth and other manufactures from thence which are as good of the kind as any they uſually get from us, and in general fitter for their uſe. Theſe manufactures the colonies have entered into in conſequence of our taxes on them and our injudicious regulations of their trade, by which, and the failure of their ſtaple commodities, they want remittances to England to purchaſe their manufactures. By theſe means our exports to North America, which amounted to 2,600,000l. a year, when the Stamp Act was paſſed in 1764, have fallen above one half. Thus we are likely to loſe the benefit of our colonies by our own regulations, which will afford but little ſatisfaction for our empty triumph in obliging them to comply with them.

By the death of Admiral Cotes, who was in the 66th year of his age, and worth upwards of 150,000l. a joinſure of 10,000l. beſides a large annuity, devolves to his Lady, now in her 21ſt year; and an immenſe fortune to his nephew, the Rev. Mr. Shirley Cotes, Rector of Wigan in Lancaſhire, ſon of his next brother.

The conſiderable tract of ground commonly called the Mint, in the borough of Southwark, which in the year 1724 was veſted in the Crown, is now going to be pulled down and appropriated to ſome Government ſervice, at preſent unknown for a certainty, but ſuppoſed to be intended for barracks for the ſoldiery.

Wedneſday evening the new invented machine of Mr. John Wynn, for the preſervation of lives and goods in caſe of fire, was exhibited at a Gentleman's houſe near King James's ſtairs, Shadwell; when 13 perſons, and ſeveral boxes and trunks, were conveyed from a two pair of ſtairs window in the ſpace of ſix minutes, to the ſatisfaction of a great number of ſpectators.

Letters from Maryland and Virginia mention that ſeveral thouſand acres of land have this year been ſown with wheat, which formerly were uſed for the cultivation of tobacco, the profits of the former having been found to turn out to better advantage to the planter.

Extract of a letter from Charleſtown, South Carolina, May 2.

"Money never was ſo ſcarce among us as it has been for twelve months paſt, and unleſs our Mother Country will grant our petition (already ſent to England) for leave to ſtamp more paper currency, to replace only what hath been lately ſunk, we muſt have a final end ſoon to the trade of this province, as the money now among us is not ſufficient, by two thirds, to anſwer the common courſe of buſineſs."

The City of London, zealous of the elegance of the ſeveral avenues leading into Weſtminſter, have it now under conſideration how to give the metropolis equal advantages. One principal improvement, and the firſt that will be put in execution, is a grand ſtreet or road from the foot of London bridge, to paſs behind St. Thomas's hoſpital into the Kent road, in a right line.

It is with great pleaſure we can inform the publick that, in ſpite of an ignorant oppoſition, the wall that divides the Green Park from Piccadilly is to be taken down, and an elegant iron rail erected in its ſtead. This noble improvement will not only add health and pleaſure to town reſidents, but be the admiration of all ſtrangers that approach the capital from the weſtern road.

Auguſt 4. A letter from Scotland ſays that almoſt every county there is at preſent bent on electioneering madneſs, prior to their annual Michaelmas head court, to be held next month; when the electors, having power to vote at the general election, are enrolled in terms of the act of Parliament.

Auguſt 6. A few nights ago, we hear, the following queſtion was debated at a tavern at the weſt end of the town: "Who is the greater man, Lord Chatham, or Lord Clive?" After a great deal of argumentation, pro and con, it was thus determined by the majority of the company: They both have been ſucceſsful in all their undertakings, the one in the cabinet, and the other in the field, in which different departments they have both ſo remarkably diſtinguiſhed themſelves that it is difficult to determine who is the greater man.

Auguſt 12. By a letter from on board his Majeſty's ſloop the Carcaſs, at Port Egmont, in the iſland of Faulkland, in the South Seas, in the lat. of 51 : 30 ſouth, about 100 leagues to the northward of Cape Horn, we learn that iſland is about 150 miles long, and has not one tree of any kind, nor any beaſts but foxes. That there are ſea lions in great plenty, two or three times as big as cart horſes in England; which when killed produce very good oil, which is burnt in the room of candles. That there are wild geeſe in great plenty, and very good, with all kinds of wild fowl, and great plenty of fine fiſh. That in the egg ſeaſon they gather upwards of 2000 per day, and they are ſerved out at ten a man per day; each egg weighs nine ounces. The French have a very delightful harbour to the eaſtward of the iſland, about 35 leagues; they have about 50 houſes, and about 200 men, beſides women and children.

Auguſt 14. The Prince of Borgheſe, head of one of the moſt illuſtrious families in Rome, is expected over this winter, on a viſit to the Engliſh Court.

ST. JOHN's (Antigua) September 23.

The ſhip Charming Nelly, William Brackenridge maſter, from Antigua, for Montſerrat and Glaſgow, was forced from her anchors the 11th inſtant off Montſerrat, and drove among the rocks; the cargo and part of the rigging is ſaved, but the ſhip is ſtranded.

Laſt Monday evening arrived here, in a very diſtreſſed condition, under jury maſts, the ſhip Nelly and Hannah, Zachariah Norman, from London for this iſland, having on the 8th inſtant, in lat 19 N. and lon. 48 W. from London, met with a terrible hurricane, in which they were obliged (for their preſervation) to cut away the main and mizzen maſts, the ſhip broaching to, and lying on her beam ends; the fall of the main maſt, by their not being able to clear the main topmaſt ſtay, got foul of the foremaſt, by which means it gave way under the hounds, and only left the ſtump ſtanding, which with the fore yards (it being lowered down to eaſe the ſhip) was all that was ſaved. This diſmal ſtorm began at E. N. E. from that to E. S. E. and round to N. N. E. from which laſt point it was moſt violent, and ended at W. N. W. after continuing 16 hours from the beginning.

NEW LONDON, October 2.

Yeſterday arrived here, in 17 days from Monte Chriſto, the brig Two Brothers, Captain Waterman, belonging to Norwich. He informs that a ſchooner ſailed from the Mount a few days before him, with 25 ſoldiers on board; who, as it was reported, were gone to take poſſeſſion of Turk Iſland for the Crown of Spain, having, it was ſaid, a commiſſion for that purpoſe.

NEW YORK, October 1.

The following extraordinary atteſtation of the Coroner of Bergen county was communicated by a Gentleman of ſuch credit as leaves not the leaſt doubt of its being genuine.

ON the 22d day of September, in the year of our Lord 1767, I Johannes Demareſt, Coroner of the county of Bergen, and province of New Jerſey, was preſent at a view of the body of one Nicholas Tuers, then lying dead, together with the jury, which I ſummoned to inquire of the death of the ſaid Nicholas Teurs. At that time a Negro man named Harry, belonging to Hendrick Chriſtians Zabriſkie, was ſuſpected of having murdered the ſaid Tuers; but there was no proof of it, and the Negro denied it. I aſked him if he was not afraid to touch Tuers: He ſaid no, he had not hurt him, and immediately came up to the corpſe then lying in the coffin; and then Staats Storm, one of the jurors, ſaid I am not afraid of him, and ſtroked the dead man's face with his hand, which made no alteration in the dead perſon, and (as I did not put any faith in any of thoſe trials) my back was turned towards the dead body, when the jury ordered the Negro to touch the dead man's face with his hand, and then I heard a cry in the room of the people ſaying, He is the man, and was deſired to come to the dead body, and was told that the ſaid Negro Harry had put his hand on Tuers's face, and that the blood immediately ran out at the noſe of the dead man Tuers. I ſaw the blood on his face, and ordered the Negro to rub his hand again on Tuers's face. He did ſo, and immediately the blood again ran out of ſaid Tuers's noſe at both noſtrils, near a common table ſpoonful at each noſtril, as well as I could judge. Whereupon the people all charged him with being the murderer, but he denied it for a few minutes, and then confeſſed that he had murdered the ſaid Nicholas Tuers, by firſt ſtriking him on the head with an axe, and then driving a wooden peg in his ear, though afterwards he ſaid he ſtruck a ſecond time with his axe, and then held him faſt until he had done ſtruggling; when that was done he awaked ſome of the family, and ſaid Tuers was dying he believed.

JOHANNES DEMAREST, Coroner.

PHILADELPHIA, October 15.

Since our laſt came to hand the Gentleman's Magazine for July 1767, in which there is a liſt of books, with remarks; and among others Dr. FRANKLIN's examination in the Houſe of Commons, relative to the repeal of the American Stamp Act, on which there is the following remark, viz.

FROM this examination of Dr. Franklin the reader may form a clearer and more comprehenſive idea of the ſtate and diſpoſition of America, of the expediency or inexpediency of the meaſure in queſtion, and of the character and conduct of the Miniſter who propoſed it, than from all that has been written upon the ſubject in newſpapers and pamphlets, under the titles of eſſays, letters, ſpeeches, and conſiderations, from the firſt moment of its becoming the object of publick attention until now.

"The queſtions in general are put with great ſubtilty and judgment, and they are anſwered with ſuch deep and familiar knowledge of the ſubject, ſuch preciſion and perſpicuity, ſuch temper, and yet ſuch ſpirit, as do the greateſt honour to Dr. Frankin, and juſtify the general opinion of his character and abilities."

Extract of a letter from London, October 8.

"I am very glad to find the people of New York have provided, by an act of Aſſembly, for the ſubſiſtence of the military in their province, as the law made here directs; and I hope all heart burnings between the colonies and Britain will now gradually ſubſide. It can never be good policy, in any future Miniſtry, to promote any meaſure whatever willfully to diſtreſs them: They cannot, at leaſt for a great while to come, ſubſiſt without the protection of this country; and, in ſhort, our mutual proſperity muſt conſiſt in our union, and in our cordial attachment to each other.

"The reports of the Minute are, by ſome, that the Miniſtry will remain pretty much as it is; that Mr Conway thinks he has done enough, in honour, to fulfil his engagements to his friends, and will ſtill keep his place; but that Lord Shelburne will be removed. Others ſay that the following changes will ſoon take place, viz. Lord Townſhend, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, in the room of Lord Briſtol; Mr. Conway, Maſter of the Ordnance, in the room of Lord Townſhend; Mr. Charles Townſhend, Secretary of State, in the room of Mr. Conway; Lord North, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in the room of Mr. Townſhend; and Lord Egmont, Preſident of the Council, in the room of Lord Northington, who retires on his penſion."

Extract of another letter from London, Auguſt 6.

"The general affairs of America here bear a very diſagreeable aſpect. The preſent Miniſtry are like to continue ſome time longer. Some particular changes will happen, and I fear the principal ſtructure will not be of long duration; but probably there will be another ſeſſion of Parliament before a conſiderable alteration is made. The oppoſition to America ſeems to increaſe: Every ſtep is taken to render the taxation of the colonies a popular meaſure, and it is contended that they ſhould be obliged explicitly to acknowledge that right. I know not what to adviſe on this occaſion, but that the friends of America, on both ſides the water, ſhould exert their utmoſt endeavours to leſſen the preſent unpopularity of the American cauſe; conciliate the affections of the people here towards you, increaſe by all poſſible means the number of your friends, and be careful not to weaken their hands, and ſtrengthen thoſe of your enemies, by raſh proceedings, the miſchiefs of which are inconceivable."

Extract of a letter from a merchant in London, Auguſt 7.

"It is truly melancholy to reflect on the ſtate of publick affairs here. The confuſion among our great men ſtill continues, who inſtead of exerting their abilities, in this time of peace with foreign powers to extend the commerce of the kingdom, pay off the national debt, and increaſe the ſtrength and power of the nation to ſupport a future war, are waſting their whole time in party contentions, intrigues, and cabals, to eſtabliſh their own power and the profit attending it, and in abuſing one another."

Extract of another letter from London, Auguſt 7.

"A late attempt to coaleſce the different parties in a new Miniſtry has proved ineffectual, and it ſeems probable that the preſent ſet will continue ſome time longer. This ſeems not unfortunate for America, as ſome of them who were propoſed to come in were its profeſſed adverſaries. The prevailing diſtinction of parties here is, thoſe who in the two laſt ſeſſions of Parliament have been diſpoſed to favour America are called by their opponents (by way of reproach) AMERICANS! while the adherents to Grenville and Bedford boaſt of their being true to the interest of Britain, and zealous for maintaining its sovereignty over the colonies. This declaration seems every day to be more and more fixed, and it is much to be feared will be carried higher, in the next session of Parliament, for the political purposes of influencing the ensuing election. It is already said that the act for quartering the soldiers at New York, without taking notice of its being done in obedience to the act of Parliament, is evasive and unsatisfactory; that it is high time to put the right of taxing America out of dispute, by an act of taxation, effectually carried into execution, &c. &c"

Our other advices by the packet, in general, are that the Gentlemen in the opposition to the present Ministry have had several meetings relating to the arrangement of a new Administration. That the Dukes of Bedford and Newcastle, Lord Temple, and Mr. Grenville, had declared they wanted no places for themselves, but hoped their friends would not be forgot. That Mr. Grenville had promised to support the new Administration, provided the dependence of the colonies was asserted and maintained. That Lord Rockingham was proposed to be at the head of the Treasury, and Mr. Dowdeswell Chancellor of the Exchequer, which was agreed to; but that some of the company being for the continuing Mr. Conway Secretary of State, and others against it, these meetings broke up, without concluding any thing.

By Captain Earle, in 6 weeks from Madeira, we learn that the English merchants there were shipping off their effects, on account of the disputes between the Courts of England and Portugal.

The free importation of wheat and wheat flower from America to Great Britain, which by the late act of Parliament was limited to the first of August last, but which empowered his Majesty, with the advice of his Privy Council, to permit the same for a longer time, is, by proclamation in the London Gazette of July 25th, lengthened to the first day of February 1768.

WILLIAMSBURG, October 28, 1767.

BEING informed that an opinion prevails in many parts of the country that the duty of two shillings on each hogshead of tobacco exported ceased the 20th of this instant, I think it my duty to inform the publick that, by virtue of an act of Assembly passed the 1st of November 1759, ten thousand pounds were emitted in treasury notes, for the redemption of which the duty of two shillings a hogshead on tobacco was continued from the 20th of October 1767 to the 20th of October 1769, to be collected by the several inspectors, and accounted for as was directed by the former laws.

I should esteem it a favour if the Gentlemen who are Clerks of the several counties would be pleased to furnish me with accounts of the numbers of insolvents allowed by their courts at laying their county levies, as well for several years past as for the succeeding years.
